Pre-meeting background

The Pacific Tuna Tagging Project is a WCPFC project, implemented by The Pacific Community (SPC), and governed by the WCPFC PTPP Steering Committee. It is the primary source of mark-recapture data for WCPFC's stock assessment, harvest strategy, and climate change projection work areas. The steering committee is presented with an abridged summary of the PTP Report (WCPFC-SC22-2026-RP-PTTP01), alongside recommendations to forward to the Scientific Committee, regarding the relevant activities of the work-plan. In addition, an abridged summary of a draft, proposed working paper SC22-SA-WP-02 will be presented, for comment and additions from the steering committee. This paper is a response to FAC19's request for the "Scientific Services Provider [to] examine options to improve cost efficiency in the tagging programme and to report these options and their scientific implications to SC22, FAC20 and WCPFC23" alongside a recommendation to "clearly flag projects that leverage significant co-funding or in-kind contributions". A draft and proposed recommendations can be found for comment by the steering committee here.
